Pollution Prevention Avengers

Vs.
The Smut Gang

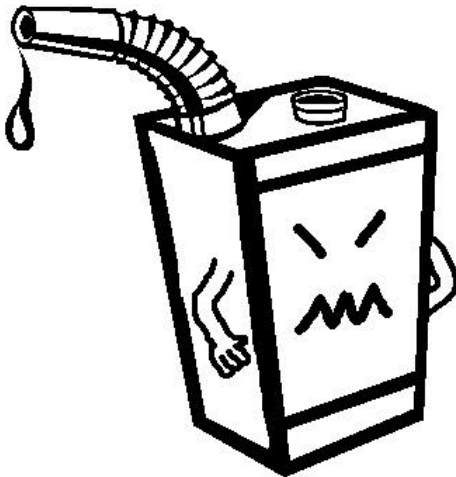

There was once an awful group of pollutants called the smut gang. One day in Albuquerque, the smut gang decided that they wanted to go play in a stormdrain along the street.

Just as the smut gang was about to play in the stormdrain, a p2 Avenger showed up. The p2 Avenger knew that if he didn't stop the smut gang from playing in the stormdrain they would pollute the Rio Grande River.

Stop! You can't play in the stormdrains, they drain into the river. You will pollute the Rio Grande.

Grease doesn't pollute water.

Neither does oil.

Pet poop can't hurt water.

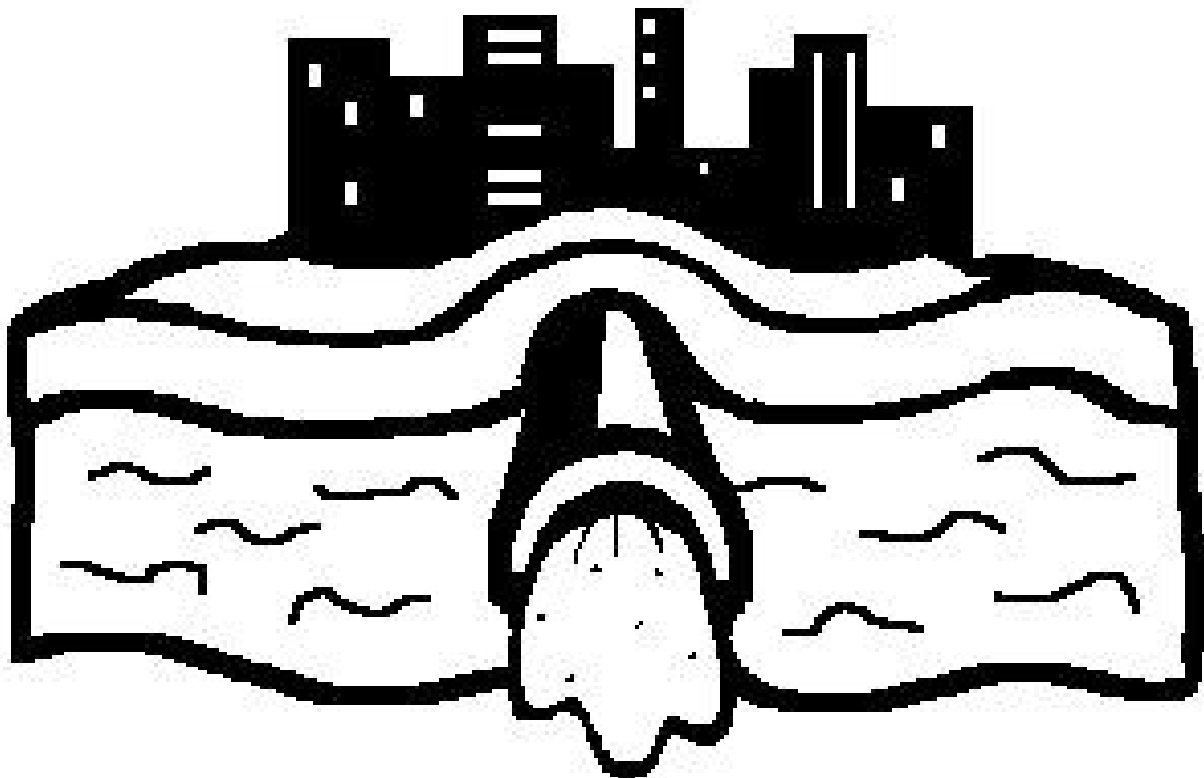

Luckily, another p2 Avenger came along and helped stop the Smut Gang just in time.

All those things can pollute the river.
So, you better not play in the stormdrain or you will go straight to the river and cause problems.

Okay, I guess
we won't play in the stormdrain.

Remember kids, everybody can be a p2 Avenger. We don't want the river to be polluted. All you have to do is remember not to dump any hazardous chemicals (like oil, grease, and even pet poop) down the sewers or stormdrains. If you or your parents have any questions about what to do with these materials please call the  Program at 873-7058 or 873-7059. Let's all try to keep our environment safe and clean.
